Editorial

Self-learning is a method in which there is an active attempt on one's part - helps in identifying one's learning needs, formulating goals, identifying material resources, evaluating outcomes, and also pacing and monitoring the process of learning.

It is observed that students face problems while writing answers and framing questions. This package specifically aims to develop an understanding of English question and answer structure. The package is designed in a scientific manner, with each question and answer pattern illustrated with detailed notes and examples. Through replacing the content word, students are able to frame correct answers as well as questions, thereby developing their competency in English, especially in this area. The questions and answers included in this package are based on the FIFA World Cup 2022, which makes the learning process interesting and easy. It will do so by helping one's master problem-solving skills, memorization, and critical thinking.

The teacher educator as well as the students worked as a team in good sportsmanship to gather questions and attempted to bring in a pedagogic dimension to a contemporary mega sports event. I strongly believe that this attempt would help those students who face difficulty catching up with English. In the process of creating Beatitudo, we could experience the spirit of working as a team and learn how to transform a contemporary event into a tool for enhancing pedagogic skills.
